

INTRODUCTION:

Light is the form of energy that makes things visible to us.

Switch on the torch in a dark room. The beam of light will be absolutely straight. This shows that light travels in a straight line.

Propagation of light in a straight line is known as rectilinear propagation of light.

You cannot see the flame through the bent straw because light travels in a straight line.

